
Myeloma Manager

Posted by walter - 2008/07/19 08:18

I downloaded the myeloma manager and got my records from my doctor, but the records don't have much of what is shown on the spreadsheet. I don't see IGA, IGG, Lambda, etc.....I see WBC Albumen, Creatinine, Calcium and a few of those. Now what do I do? Is there something else the doctor needs to give me?

=====

Re:Myeloma Manager

Posted by beth - 2008/07/19 08:49

Hi Walter,

Ask your doctor how he's tracking your MM. There should be tests such as SPEP, IFE and IEP. Some people also have one called serum free light chain assay.

Beth

=====

Re:Myeloma Manager

Posted by Laura - 2008/07/30 06:42

I've been TRYING to download the MM Manager for my Dad.

The zip opens, but I get nothing? I really would like to take this to my Dads oncologist. Any idea what I'm doing wrong? It sounds like a really useful tool and I'm not exactly computer literate, but would desperately like to have it.

Any suggestions?

=====

Re:Myeloma Manager

Posted by walter - 2008/07/30 08:02

I can't say what the problem is. I downloaded without any problems. Put a new post out there that is from you instead of replying to my post, someone should be able to help you.

=====

Re:Myeloma Manager

Posted by jsnow527 - 2008/07/30 08:06

Have you "installed" the program? The program has to be actually installed on your computer to work.

Are you working on an Apple? Apparently the program is not Apple compatible at this time. They are working on that.

Good luck.

=====

Re:Myeloma Manager

Posted by beth - 2008/07/30 10:48

That's right. It's an Excel spreadsheet, isn't it?

=====

Re:Myeloma Manager

Posted by jsnow527 - 2008/07/30 15:53

No, it's actually a program in itself. It is pretty good an allows you to add or delete tests to meet your needs.

Janet

=====