

Wigs, etc.

I got a wig but could not stand it. I was much more comfortable with scarves and just a plain old baseball cap. When I was home or around friends or family I didn't even do that. Bald was fine and most of my close friends said I had a nice shaped head and it looked good. If you are in an area where cold weather is starting like me now, I did get a really nice warm hat for going outside. I also ordered a lot of things from a magazine called TLC that is part of the American Cancer Society. The doctors office had them.
